The prices, as is always the rule, were chaded fractionally under the prices for the same goods at the factories. The old goods, however, were cut even more. Representatives of the big stores were on hand. Abraham & Straus of Brooklyn announced in the afternoon that they had bought largely of the best of the H. B. Claffin stock and within a few days will offer the biggest line of merchandise ever placed at retail. The stock which that firm bought includes upholsterings, carpets, knit underwear, wash goods, dress goods, white goods, linens and wearing apparel.

Representatives of the following firms were at the store: Siegel-Cooper & Co. of Chicago, Jordan, Marsh & R. H. White & Co., Boston: Burton Dry Goods Company and Leon Fellman & Co., New Orleans; Wolff & Marx, San Antonio, Tex.: W. C.
